SEE FIRST, TH'IRD, AND FOURTH

Neither House of Congrass was in session to-day.

Mr. Clay. We have no change to note in the condition of Mr. Clay's health to-day.

Can the South Prove "Recreant." When General Harrison's nomination was announced in the Southern States the tidings were received with sorrow, and it was almost universally acknowledged by the Whigs-who were overpowered by the loud and bold declarations of their adversaries-that he was a feeble old man and arrant abolitionist! We indeed knew men who had never voted out of the Whig party, and yet whose impulses prompted them to make such protestations as rendered them powerless during the whole of the campaign. Yet General Harrison proved the strongest man ever presented by the Whigs to the South.

General Scott possesses the confidence and respect of the whole country; his history runs through a long period of time, yet is fresh in the memory of his countrymen. His principles are undoubted; his commanding administrative talents are acknowledged; his patriotism, his fidelity, his honor, and bravery are the pride of his country. Will the South reject him? Will the Whigs of the South, in blind devotion to those who would flatter and cajole them, do themselves so great a wrong as to withhold their suffrages from an illustrious Southern, who has evinced, by every action of his life, the most fervent devotion to the Union, the whole Union, and nothing but the Union? Never! We can answer these interrogatories as positively now as they will be answered in November next. The Whigs of the South will continue to be Whigs worthy of their proud name; and while a few of the faint-hearted and unstable shall be regretting their folly, one united voice from the North, from the South, from the East, and from the West, will ascend in shouts of triumph—the triumph of a noble leader, the triumph of a noble party, the triumph of the true and devoted friends of the union of our glorious constellation!

Who is to be the Democratic Nominee We are not in the habit of meddling with the affairs of our friends on the other side; but as we frequently hear the question asked, "Will the friends of General Cass, who are in the majority, submit to his being ruled off by the twothirds rule ?" we propose offering a reply, which able Democratic paper of Virginia. It says:

"Gen. Cass was nominated in 1848 under the two-thirds rule, and no excuse could be offered by the friends of that gentleman for desiring, much less attempting, a change of a rule so just in itself, and of such vital importance to the success of the party. If Gen Cass could accept a nomination under it in 1848, it would be the extreme of bad faith in him now to refuse to submit to a different fate from its application. That he or his friends will be guilty of such inconsistency, we entertain not the slightest fears."

The Whigs of the South.

We learn that a Whig meeting, to make arrangements for sending delegates to the Whig National Convention, was held at Mobile on the 5th inst.: that Dr. Perrine made a speech in favor of Gen. Scott, and Capt. Drew one in favor of Mr. Webster; and that the meeting refused to adopt resolutions nominating Mr. Fillmore. We shall know anon whether General Scott has friends in the South or not! Dr. Perrine is an old, tried, firm, and true Whig, who never flies from his party obligations. There may possibly be found "more of the same sort" in those re-"Union" Men of Alabama.

The Republic of this morning gives place to a "lengthy letter," addressed by Messrs. White and Abercrombie, of Alabama, to the chairman of the Carrollton district cenvention, with regard to the course to be pursued by the Union party of the State. They counsel the continuance of the Union party as an independent organization, and, in pursuance of that view, decline to accept a nomination made in their behalf as delegates to the Whig National Convention.

Marble Monument.

A very beautiful monument of veined Italian marble, executed by Mr. J. A. Kirkpatrick, near the Theatre, was this morning removed to its destined place. It has been described to us as a highly creditable production. Mr. Kirkpatrick is also the manufacturer of the most admirable descriptions of marble mantels, and everything else usual in his line.

New York.

The Republic counts four of the city delegates as Fillmore and two as Scott men; and then makes the whole number elected thus far seven for Fillmore and twenty-five for Scott, omitting to name Mr. Webster at all. This is not the way it will stand exactly; but this will do.

We have received from the press of Messrs. Gideon & Co. a neatly-printed pamphlet. containing statistics of American railroads, pre- the other by Mr. West and Mr. Winemiller. Mr. pared by J. C. G. Kennedy, esq., at the Census Office, at the request of the French Department of Public Works. It is a clear and satisfactory exhibit of the subject, in convenient and agreeable form.

WYMAN, the ventriloquist and magician, opens at Odd-Fellows' Hall, on Monday night, to all who love the comical and wonderful. Wyman is a rara avis in terris, and everybody likes to get a glimpse at his beak.

The Ninth street Presbyterian Church is being put in order for the reception of the General Assembly. Four splendid chandeliers, each having twelve gas-burners, have just been put in their places by Mr. Thompson.

A little slab of granite was yesterday drawn up to the eastern portico of the Patent to establish a synagogue in Washington. Office. Its weight was 101 tons, or 28,520

The Pittsburg Daily Union is a new, handsome, well-filled sheet, and looks like one who sees a promise of success in the future. May it prove a truthful promise.

New Bedford has refused to invite Kosto visit that place as a guest of the city.

Profanity.

The Cincinnati Times remarks that the statute against using profane language has been revived at Memphis, Tennessee, and applies to all parties of every sect and color, and will do about as much good as the same law does in Ohio; and that if you want to know how much that is, tell a fishbutcher that his bass are getting offensive.

We have no doubt that such a law can do but little in the way of preventing profanity in a Christian land; but can it do anything? If so, enact it. There are but few boys on our streets. but few gentlemen in public places, but few servants in hall or kitchen, and no ruffians, who do not, every hour of their lives, swear and plaspheme most infamously, absurdly, vulgarly, ridiculously, contemptibly, and disgustingly. Truly religious men, of course, are exceptions; but it is wonderful that any man has not religion enough to keep him from so foul, degrading, and vile a practice.

Every State should have on its statute-books a law against this offence; and every minister of the law should be interested in its execution.

Raising the Wind!

A newspaper before us states that the number of manufacturers of fans in Paris in 1847 was one hundred and twenty-five, whose aggregate transactions amounted to about 580,000 dollars. Many of these manufacturers, however, confine themselves to particular parts of the business. For instance: there are forty-one who are merely painters and colorists; twenty-one who simply mount the fans; eight who make only what is called the leaf of the fan; five whose speciality is a polish and varnish; six who make borders only. &c. The number of those whose business comprises the complete manufacture of the fan is only twenty-seven. These employ two hundred and sixty-nine hands, and their aggregate transactions amount to 424,000 dollars annually. Of the one hundred and twenty-two manufacturers above mentioned, fourteen employ more than ten hands; forty-six employ from two to ten; twenty-two but one; and forty work

The Drama. On Monday next, the actor whose fame is broader than that of any American that ever trod the stage, and whom very many now regard as the first tragedian in the world, will commence an engagement at the National: and there is no doubt but his first appearance will attract a large audience. It would seem, indeed, that, in anticipation of Mr. Forrest's arrival, as well as from other circumstances, many have remained away from the Theatre for the past two weeks, and the houses were not such as could have been desired during Miss Logan's engagement. Yet her personation of "Ion," "Beatrice," "Elvira," &c., will be remembered by her auditors as among the most chaste specimens of acting.

Mr. Fleming, as usual, acquitted himself very creditably in the characters he took throughout her engagement; but, in general, the parts were not represented in such a manner as was neceswe quote from the Lynchburg Republican, an sary to give the best effect to her efforts. In saying this, we disclaim censuring any of the company; for there may be circumstances which, if known, would go far to palliate their apparent defects; and, taking this view of the matter, the local critic of the "Republic" might have been less severely witty upon Mr. Owen's "Pizarro;" or was that scintillation merely introductory to his carefully-qualified praise of "Elvira," followed by the censorious fling at Miss Celia's " Cora ?" A previous notice, however, in the local column of that paper, is so palpably unjust to Miss E. Logan, that the public can well excuse all the good or harm that can emanate from that source. But we commenced this to be peak a generous turn-out to-night to Miss Zelia Logan's benefit. She appears in two characters, one of which, in her former performance of it, was enthusiastically cheered; and "Lucretia Borgia" is a character well calculated to call forth her sister's powers. Let them depart from the metropolis with a favorable opinion of its play-goers.

Mr. Forrest as Damon.

Mr. Forrest will open his engagement at the National Theatre, on Monday evening, as Damonthe same character in which he appeared at the beginning of his late series of triumphs in New York. It is a grand and striking picture, and well displays the talents of the great actor. Mr. Forrest will be sustained in this play by Mr. Conway, of the Broadway Theatre, and by that rare actress, Madame Ponisi, from the sam establishment. Both these performers sustained him throughout his recent engagement in that city; and both are at the top of their profession.

Self-Generating Gas.

The principle of illuminating by means of this new agent will be illustrated at the Irving House to-night. It will be contrasted with the gas now in use, and its economy and advantages will be explained to any persons desirous of understanding them by Mr. E. W. Hall, the proprietor of the patent-right. It is worthy a careful inspection. We learn from Mr. Hall that he invites of its quick and powerful pain-relieving properties. the strictest scrutiny, and is willing to test his light by any other in the United States.

Fire.

The carpenter shop, owned by Mr. Isherwood, and occupied by Mr. Chancey, in an alley between 41 and 6th streets and Pennsylvania and Missouri avenues, was found to be on fire about daylight this morning, and was destroyed, together with two stables owned by Mr. Bowen, one of them occupied by himself and Mr. Lewis, and West lost a valuable carriage. The fire is supposed to have been caused by an incendiary.

There was no insurance on any of the property. There appears to be something wrong with our fire companies. We are informed that but two of them are prepared to assist in extingushing

Political Matters-The Shooting Case The Legislature-National Council of Bishops, &c.

BALTIMORE, May 14-10 p. m. Political matters begin to run pretty high in our city. I find that a large portion of the leading public Whig politicians are in favor of the reelection of Mr. Fillmore, but among the rank and file-those who do the voting, and count up on the day of election-there is a very significant number of Scott men. If the National Convention should nominate the old hero, there will be no difficulty in wheeling into rank. His name, and fame, and patriotism, and military glory, will spread like wild-fire, and take captive thousands upon thousands. For my own part, I should be glad to give him my support, heart and soul. And yet, if Mr. Fillmore, or any other sound Whig, is put in nomination, I am at their service. I shall only wish to be satisfied in regard to the following questions: Is he a good Whig? Is he sound upon the Compromise ?-or, in other words, is he in favor of sustaining the present Compro-Several leading Democrats, with whom I have conversed, are not exactly favorable to Mr. Cass, although Maryland will give her first vote in the Convention for him. I do not pretend much to prognosticating, but my impression is, that Gen. Cass cannot get the nomination. Many Democrats are taking up an idea that he will be the easiest man beaten. Buchanan's chances, in my judgment, are better than his.

The young man, Creamer, who was shot at and wounded yesterday morning, by Mr. League, father of the young girl to whom he proved false, has, I am told, taken his departure, wounded as he was, for parts unknown, accompanied by his youthful bride. The case is a most aggravated one. He has been instrumental in breaking up the peace and happiness of a whole family. It is really not to be wondered at that the exasperated and broken-hearted father sought thus to avenge the wrongs of an injured daughter. There is, in my humble judgment, no crime so black and damning as that of a seducer. A murderer is respectable compared with such. He only kills one at a time, without entailing the sting of remorse and disgrace upon families and friends; but the destroyer of innocence and female virtue murders. piecemeal, father, mother, daughters, brothers, and friends. He breaks up the foundation of domestic happiness, and supplants it with everlasting misery. No punishment could be too severe for such offenders. I would hang them side by side with the midnight assassin.

Our legislature has at last agreed to adjour on the 31st instant, after a session of nearly six months spent in waste of time. They have yet done nothing of importance.

A VALUABLE BRICK .- A journeyman mason, named Brefond, was employed to repair a chimney in the apartment of a gentleman residing in the Rue des France Bourgeois. While about his work, the mason broke a brick which he found in the chimney, and to his surprise discovered that it was hollow, and contained a bank note for 500f. he workman was all alone, and might readil have appropristed this sum to himself, but he preferred to communicate the fact to his employer, who called to mind that about two months pefore he had written to his uncle, at Amsterdam, for a supply of money, and had in return received a carefully-sealed package, which, on being opened, proved to be nothing but the brick in question, which the indignant recipient threw into the chimney, and wrote his uncle an angry letter on the subject, to which no answer had been sent. The gentleman was not aware that in Holland these hollow bricks are made on purpose to send small sums of money, as making a more secure package than any other. The ma son was liberally rewarded for his honesty, and a letter of thanks and apology was despatched to the uncle. Who would refuse to carry a few such bricks CIENTIFIC TREATMENT.—The celebrated CIENTIFIC TREATMENT.—The celebrated young Veterinarian, Wm. E. Clever, Ind., on the 24th of April, a case sent to him from Mr. Waters's wood-yard, near the Post Office, of fistulent choic, which he cured about 4 o'clock, by introducing a sillet into the blind gut, about eight inches leng, to draw the extrication of gas, in which he succeeded on Sunday morning. The horse was attacked with bronchitis, and, by the assistance of Robert Raney and Mr. McGuire, he introduced a tube into the trachea, and the horse breathed out of it four days, when the tube was taken out and the hole closed; and the horse is now fit for work. Much credit is due to the young practitioner for it.

In making the above announcement, it is deemed proper to say that a large number of citizens of all parties, from the several Wards of the city, addressed to Mr. Maury a few days ago a communication expressing their wish to present his name to his fellow-citizens as a candidate for the Mayoralty at the ensuing election, independent of all questions connected with the politics of the day, and solely in consideration of his long and useful services in the Councils, and of his fitness for the place.

THE MAYORALTY.

A S the friends of other candidates for this office are already active in their behalf, I desire to present the name of the present incumbent, WALTER LENOX, esq., for re-election. It is to be expected that personal preference will, to some extent, govern the choice of many, but before the community generally, honest and discerning in its decision, is not the proper question, "What is the public interest?" It must be admitted by every reflecting citizen that sudden and uncalled-for change is not only unjust to the officer, but to the public interest. It takes away the personal motive and ambition which induce the faithful performance of duty, and loses to the public the benefit of official experience. If the present incumbent has discharged the duties of the office with ability and zeal, and can hereafter bring to it the advantage of practical experience, I trust that the people of Washington will not use the elective franchise to their own injury and the injustice of a public officer. "A GOOD JOKE!"

THE following is quoted from the National Intelligencer:
"UNPOPULAR LEASISLATION.—The Boston Courier says that the legislature of Maine appears to have left behind it anything but the odor of popularity. One of its earliest transactions was the enactment of the famous liquor law, which was passed as a legislative joke, with the idea that the Governor was to veto it, while the Governor, not relishing such jests, quietly put his name to the document, upon the principle that 'every tub should stand on its own bottom."

There are "some more of the same sort" of jokes on the rounds. Two more States and one Territory have adopted the law "in joke." Pass it round. The names of some of
